The Hartwick College athlete, who was chosen as the UA's second runner-up in the national championships in June, has proved an instant hit among his teammates and coaches at the IAAF World Championships in Beijing. A punishing start. A powerful finish. What more can you say about the value of the 22nd overall selection in the 2012 USTFCCCA collegiate track and field world championships? That's exactly what Kurt Jacobson has said. "Sitting here at these Worlds and realizing that I am an NCAA All-American, an NCAA individual champion in the high jump and a four-time NCAA individual champion in the steeplechase is an absolute dream come true," Jacobson, an Iowa native, said after finishing seventh in the high jump (1.96 meters) at the Nov. 15 World Championships in Beijing. "This championship has been an absolute dream, and I couldn't be more excited. I'm just thrilled to be doing this." Jacobson and America's top collegiate hurdlers, including pole vault champion Branton Thomas and steeplechase runner-up Brandon Henrie, have delivered a season of unprecedented excellence, particularly during their NCAA championship runs. Jacobson's seven-meet high school and college track record stands at 2.43 meters. His meet-closing, third-round jump of 2.37 meters propelled him into the school's all-time top 10 and helped him earn his spot at the World Championships as the No. 22 overall selection. The high jump historically is one of the premier events in track, with the top-ranked collegiate performer in the event often selected as the nation's No. 1 jumper. Jacobson posted the second-best collegiate high jump performance of his career (by more than .75 meters). His 2.37 meters set a school record that is the seventh-best in the UA program's
